ALM Positioners, Inc., in conjunction with Hawk Technology, will manufacture a branded line of welding and assembly positioners for blue chip manufacturers and distributors. The Company's positioners are used by customers to safely and efficiently elevate and rotate large weldments to a convenient height and working position insuring improved quality, productivity and profits.

"Hawk is excited about bringing these two great companies together. ALM has enjoyed tremendous growth over the last few years and become the "go to" manufacturer of positioners. We see tremendous synergies by putting our two companies together. We look forward to the continued growth of the two businesses," said Josh Clare, CEO of Hawk.

Doug Grunnet, President of ALM said, "The key to ALM's rapid growth and industry acceptance has been the innovative product design of its positioners and a commitment to our customers' needs and requirements. The ongoing operation of ALM Positioners, Inc., as an independent subsidiary of Hawk Technology, enhances both companies' opportunities to respond to expanding customer requests and continued superior distributor support."
